

Leticia A. Bourges holds a PhD from University Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne with a dissertation on La distinction juridique du produit Agricole et agroalimentaire dans l'évolution du droit rural, and Master Degree from the same university and from University of Nantes, both degrees related to agro-food Law. She gives a course on Introduction to International Rural Law in the Master Degree of Agricultural Law in University of Paris 1. She is author and coauthor of several publications especially on agricultural, environmental and food law and she has been invited to give lectures at various universities (Argentina - Brazil - Spain). She is also author of publications as well as lecturer at national and international congresses and conferences.